Grammar: Adverbs

Types of Adverbs

What is an Adverb?

An adverb is a word which tells us more about

- A verb: Amie eats quickly.
- An adverb: The squirrel nibbled quite greedily.
- An adjective: I am very happy.

In the previous classes, you have been taught the following types of adverbs:

- Adverb of time (which show when)
- Adverb of place (which show where)
- Adverb of manner (which show how)
- Adverb of degree (which show to what extent)
- Adverb of frequency (which show how often)

These are also called simple adverbs. Let us look at a few examples of each type.

• When did the glass break? (Interrogative adverb of time)

• Why is the room noisy? (Interrogative adverb of reason)

• How many candies were sold? (Interrogative adverb of number)

• How high is the Qutub Minar? (Interrogative adverb of degree)

Adverbs are also used in relative clauses.

Relative Adverbs

- The relative adverb where is used to refer to places and means 'in which' or 'at which'.
 - This is the place where Shakespeare was born.
 - That is the section where the gas chambers were installed.
- The relative adverb when is used to refer to time and means 'in which' or 'at which'.
 - Night is the time when the dog starts howling.
 - Do you remember when you last rode a horse?
- The relative adverb why is used to refer to a reason and means 'for which'.
 - I don't know why she stole the book.
 - This is the purpose why the room is locked.

Recap

An adverb modifies another adverb, an adjective or a verb.

Adverbs of Time answer the question 'when' in relation to the verb.

Adverbs of Place answer the question 'where' in relation to the verb.

Adverbs of Manner answer the question 'how' in relation to the verb.

Adverbs of Degree answer the question 'to what extent' in relation to an adjective, a verb or an adverb.

Adverbs of Frequency answer the question 'how often' in relation to a verb.

Interrogative adverbs (when, where, how, why) are used for asking questions.

Relative adverbs (when, where, how, why, how often) refer back to the action in the sentence.
